LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR F. H. LUCE.

THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

WITH the exception of Alaska, the State of Washington is the most northwestern of the political divisions of the United States. Its form is a parallelogram, fronting on the Pacific Ocean for a distance of 170 miles, and extending eastward therefrom about 360 miles. It has an area of 69,994 square miles. Exclusive of the mountain regions unfit for cultivation and the water area, there remain about 35,000,000 acres, of which about 20,000,000 acres are timber land, about 5,000,000 acres are rich, alluvial bottom lands, and 10,000,000 acres are prairies and plains. It is about the size of Ohio and Indiana combined, or of England and Wales. Perhaps no state in the Union is so diversified in topography, climate and resources as the State of Washington.

The most prominent feature of its topography is its division into two grand regions by the Cascade range of mountains, the characteristics of the two divisions as to climate, soil and productions being as marked as if they were a thousand miles apart. The Puget Sound basin constitutes the western division; the eastern is variously styled the "Big Bend country" or the "Inland Empire." Eastern Washington is composed chiefly of prairies and rolling plains, whose soil is a volcanic ash, and on which are the most productive wheat, fruit and vegetable farms in the world. The weather is similar to that of Kentucky.

But by far the most interesting feature of the Pacific Coast is the matchless inland sea of Puget Sound and the stupendous forests with which its shores are clothed. It extends to the very heart of the State, and with its innumerable bays, inlets and canals furnishes a shore line of not less than two thousand miles, washed by the ebb and flow of the tides. On either side of this beautiful sheet of water are magnificent prospects, the snowy peaks of the Cascades ranged opposite those of the unexplored Olympics on the peninsula to the westward. The Puget Sound basin is about 100 by 150 miles in extent. Here are nearly 6,000,000 acres of the finest fir, cedar, spruce, hemlock and other varieties of timber growing upon soils of the greatest fertility, the bottom lands being extraordinarily rich. The warm Japan current produces in the winter frequent rains and a temperature that rarely goes below the freezing point. The summers are clear, bright and bracing. Grass is green the year round, and certain flowers bloom all winter long.

Nature has indeed been lavish to this favored region. To a mild yet invigorating climate is joined surpassingly beautiful scenery. The intense agriculture permitted by irrigation in Eastern Washington produces enormous crops of grain, fruit and vegetables, dwarfing those of the Eastern states. The uplands beyond the valley of the Columbia afford yields of wheat taxing the existing facilities for transportation to tidewater at Puget Sound. Beneath the glittering glaciers of the white-capped peaks are untold treasures of gold, silver and lead, and under the foothills lies more coal and iron than there is in Pennsylvania. Terrific gorges form sublime gateways for the modern highways of commerce which link together the two divisions of the State. On the mountain slopes and in the plains range countless flocks of sheep and herds of cattle and horses. Within the basin of Puget Sound stands a forest crop waiting for the harvesters. The evergreen slopes of this region make it an ideal one for dairying, while unsurpassed fertility marks the lowlands. The mountain streams are alive with trout, and the waters of the Sound and ocean nearby teem with salmon, cod, herring, mackerel and other fishes, whose food value is incalculable. The vast extent of navigable waters gives the products of this favored region easy access to the markets of the world.

The astounding wealth and variety of the resources of the State have challenged the consideration of the greatest capitalists of America, and many of them are among the heaviest investors in this region. More transcontinental lines of railway have been extended to Puget Sound than to all other parts of the Pacific Coast combined. Corporate monopoly is thus restrained by mutual competition and the open highway of the world, the ocean, affords to commercial enterprise the widest opportunity and the greatest freedom.

In the development of these many different kinds of resources a vast population can find profitable employment. The economic advantage of a close exchange of products is obvious, and not the least of the advantages of this region is the certainty that a great home market will here be established. The miner, the fisherman, the lumberman, the mariner, the merchant, the manufacturer, the herder, the mechanic, the fruit grower, the dairyman, the farmer, all find opportunity here for work, and each finds here customers for his products in all the others. Each is aided by the others in the prosecution of his industry, and thus, with symmetrical development of the resources of this region, hard times will ever press lightest upon its population.

Indeed, the State of Washington is thoroughly independent of the rest of the world, except in so far as she requires a market for her surplus products, and that she already enjoys in an exceptional manner, for, to obtain many of her products, ships come empty from the farthest ends of the earth, while for other of her products she is so advantageously situated in regard to proximity to the points of consumption from which rival points of supply are far removed, that she can claim vast continents as her protected market. Alaska already pours her golden treasure into our lap for supplies and merchandise of all kinds. Japan and China need our flour, lumber, iron, wool, leather and dairy products. Australia and South Africa require our flour, lumber and iron, as also do the islands of the Pacific and the entire coast of both Americas and Mexico. For all these markets in these commodities Puget Sound is the nearest if not the only available point of supply. The eastern part of the United States requires our lumber, hops, fruits, wool and leather. California must purchase our coal, lumber and iron. Europe buys our grain, hops and lumber, while all the world wants our gold and silver. In fine, Washington yields in abundance products which are needed in every market in the world, and so little does she need to purchase elsewhere that a large surplus of exchange must ever remain in her favor.

The commerce of the Atlantic Coast countries is of vast proportions, while that of the Pacific Coast countries, with many times larger populations, is but just beginning to expand. With the civilization of Asia which must result from the war between China and Japan, and the consequent increasing wants of those peoples, transoceanic trade will be enormously stimulated. The settlement of Australia and South Africa, the civilization of the Pacific Islands and the development of South America will tend to swell the commerce of this coast for the participation in which the State of Washington is so advantageously situated.—
Will A. Steel in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer New Year's Souvenir Edition.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The Constitutional Convention of the State of Washington, composed of seventy-five members, assembled at Olympia, July 4, 1889, in accordance with the Enabling Act. John P. John L. Wilson was elected Senator on the twenty-eighth ballot, taken February 1, 1895, and will serve until March 4, 1899.

Ex-Governor Ferry.

ELISHA P. FERRY, Republican, was born at Monroe, Michigan, August 9, 1825. Studied law there and at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and was admitted to the bar in 1845. In 1846 removed to Waukegan, Illinois, where he engaged in the practice of his profession; was the first Mayor of Waukegan, in 1852, and in 1856 was Presidential Elector for the district in which he resided; was a member of the Constitutional Convention in Illinois in 1861; from 1861 to 1863 was Bank Commissioner in that state. During these years he was a member of Governor Yates' staff as Assistant Adjutant General with rank of Colonel. In 1869 was appointed Surveyor General of Washington Territory. In 1872 was appointed Governor of Washington Territory and reappointed in 1876. All of these appointments were conferred upon him by President Grant. He served as Governor until November, 1880; removed to Seattle and became a member of a law firm. In September, 1887, retired from the practice of the law and entered the Puget Sound National Bank as Vice President. On the 4th of September, 1889, was nominated by the Republican party for Governor of the State, and on the 1st day of October was elected. He served until January, 1893, when he retired to private life and has since continued to reside at Olympia.

AN UNEQUALLED HARBOR.

Puget Sound will get the bulk of the commerce of the coast, because there is no harbor equal to it. San Francisco has a harbor, but what has it to back it? The city is not located so that it can control the interior trade. At the Columbia River there is Portland, but it is a hundred miles inland, over a way that is often dangerous for vessels. Nowhere do you find a harbor equal to Puget Sound. Every single one of the great trans-continental railroads has got to come here. The Southern Pacific, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Central Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Northern Pacific, the Canadian Pacific and the Great Northern—all point toward Puget Sound.—From an interview with Charles I. Colby.

COAL MINING IN WASHINGTON.

Coal is found in eighteen of the thirty-four counties of the State. The fields are said to comprise 1,000,000 acres. The varieties are lignite, bituminous, anthracite and coals of mixed character. The first mines developed were in Whatcom County, followed by those of King, Pierce, Lewis and Kittitas Counties. The chief development has been in King County, from which there has been taken nearly one-half the coal mined in Washington. State Coal Mine Inspectors David Edmonds and Joseph James report that during the year 1894 there were 4,380 men employed in the mines of the State, who mined 1,163,432 tons of coal, as follows:

UNITED STATES SENATOR JOHN L. WILSON.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

UNITED STATES SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN.

Senator Squire.

WATSON C. SQUIRE, of Seattle, born in Cape Vincent, New York, in 1838, was graduated by Wesleyan University, Connecticut, in 1859; served in civil war; studied law; came to Washington in 1879; appointed Governor of the Territory in 1884 for three years; elected United States Senator in 1889 and re-elected in 1891. His term will expire March 4, 1897.

Senator Wilson.

JOHN L. WILSON, of Spokane, Republican. was born in Crawfordsville, Indiana, August 7, 1850; received a primary education in the common schools; was graduated from Wabash College in 1874; studied law under Colonel W. C. Wilson, of Lafayette, Indiana; was elected a Representative to the State Legislature of Indiana in 1880, from Montgomery County; was appointed by President Arthur Receiver of Public Moneys at Spokane, and served four years and four months; was elected to the Fifty-first Congress as a Republican, being the first Member of Congress elected from the State of Washington, receiving 34,039 votes against 24,492 votes for Thomas C. Griffiths, Democrat. Re-elected November, 1890, receiving 29,153 votes against 22,831 for Thomas Carroll and 2,819 for Robert Abernathy. Re-elected in 1892. During the war of the Rebellion Mr. Wilson served, at the age of thirteen years, on the staff of his father, who was a colonel, as a messenger. In 1883 he was married to Miss E. Sweet, of Chicago. Mr. Wilson's father was Jonas Wilson, who was the first Republican Representative from the Eighth District, Indiana, in 1856, defeating the present United States Senator Voorhees, of that state. He was elected United States Senator in January, 1895, to fill a vacancy caused by the failure of the legislature to elect in 1893. His term will expire March 4, 1899.

Representative Doolittle.

W. H. DOOLITTLE, of Tacoma, born in Erie County, Pennsylvania, November, 1849; lawyer by profession; served in the civil war; member of Nebraska Legislature, and Assistant United States District Attorney of that state; came to Washington in 1880; elected to Congress in 1892 and re-elected in 1894.

Representative Hyde.

S. C. HYDE, of Spokane, was born at Fort Ticonderoga, New York, April 22, 1842. In childhood his parents removed with him to Wisconsin and settled on a farm near Oshkosh, where he grew to manhood, receiving only such education as the common schools at that time afforded. He served as a private soldier in the war for the Union in the Seventeenth Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry. He was married January 18, 1869, to Miss Mattie Rogers, of Rosendale, Wisconsin; removed to Iowa, where he completed his law studies at the law school of the Iowa State University; was admitted to the bar and practised his profession at Rock Rapids, Iowa, for seven years. In 1877 he removed with his family to the Territory of Washington, living on Puget Sound for two years. He located at Spokane May 4, 1879, and has since continued to reside there. W. H. HAM Representative Ham—WILLIAM H. HAM, of Cowlitz County, was reared on a farm in the State of Maine. At the age of seventeen he taught his first school. When twenty-one he was elected superintendent of schools in his native town. He was twice re-elected to this position. He is a graduate of Nichols' Latin School, also of Bates' College, Lewiston, Maine. After leaving school he went to Illinois, and was principal of the public schools at Hennepin, Putnam County, four years. Then he moved to Gage County, Nebraska, and engaged in farming and teaching. More than five years ago he went to Cowlitz County and settled on Coal Creek, near Stella; leaving his place on Coal Creek two years ago, he bought another two miles west of Castle Rock, where he now lives. He was elected Chairman of the Republican Convention held in Cowlitz County two years ago.

Representative Hanford—FRANK HANFORD was born in Van Buren County, Iowa, January 9, 1853, and when he was three months old was taken with his parents to the Golden West, in September of the same year arriving at Milwaukie, Oregon, then the lively rival of Portland. Mr. Hanford's father bought a ranch near the town, but, not liking the place, concluded to come to Puget Sound. For some years they lived on the Duwamish River. In 1861 Mr. Hanford moved with his family to San Francisco, and lived there until September, 1866, in the interval the Hanford children attending the schools of that city. In 1866, when the Hanfords returned to Seattle, the boys attended the University, and Frank prepared for a college course. In 1871 he taught a term of school afterwards holding a clerical position. He was for thirteen years bookkeeper and manager for Harrington & Smith. In 1887 he went into the insurance business, succeeding J. D. Lowman, and he has been in this business ever since, the firm name now being Hanford & Stewart. Mr. Hanford is interested in many enterprises in and about Seattle, and is Vice President of the Myers Packing Company, one of the largest salmon canneries on the North Pacific Coast.

Representative Haffey—JAMES HAFHEY, Representative from Skamania County, was born in Carbon County, Pennsylvania, February 8, 1857. Leaving there in 1861 he came to Washington with his parents, stopping at Bellingham Bay. They left for California after one year and remained there until James was eighteen years of age. They then moved to San Francisco and the young man learned the blacksmith trade. He returned to Washington in 1881, locating at Cape Horn, Skamania County, where he has since resided. Mr. Haffey has been very prominent in Republican politics and has held several positions of honor and trust. He served as County Assessor in 1889-90, and 1893-94, when he was elected to the Legislature. He is also postmaster in his town. the half-block on which the Tull Block now stands, built a three-story brick block and opened a large wholesale and retail furniture and carpet house. He sold out at the end of the year and built a fine bank building, which was consumed in the great fire of 1889. He now owns the largest block in the city of Spokane. He was a member of the city council for two years and was elected by the council mayor to fill a vacancy. He was elected to the Legislature in 1892 and was re-elected in 1894. He has always been a Republican and a hard worker for the party.

Representative Van Eaton—T. C. VAN EATON, of Eatonville, was born on July 27, 1862, in Pope County, Minnesota, being the first white child born in that county. His father was killed in August of the same year at Sauk Rapids, Minnesota, in the Indian war. He moved to Iowa in 1871, and commenced to make his own living at the age of nine years. He first became a professional small mail driver, and afterward a contractor and builder. After living some years in Iowa he moved to Nebraska, thence to South Dakota, thence to Wyoming, thence to Montana, thence to Tacoma, in all of which places he worked as a builder with moderate success. He moved to Eatonville in March, 1889, took a homestead and started a general merchandise store.

Representative Woodworth—ALMON WOODWORTH was born in Union, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, in 1841, and lived on the farm with his father until the war of the rebellion broke out. He enlisted June, 1861, in Company F, Seventh Pennsylvania Reserves, and received an honorable discharge from the regiment in November, 1892, on account of disability, caused by a gunshot wound received in the battle of Gaines Mill. After recuperating and attending one term of school at the New Columbus, Pennsylvania, Academy, he engaged in the mercantile business, with much success. He retired from that business eight years ago, and came to Tacoma six years ago. He is now interested in the real estate and insurance business.

Representative Wing—FREDERICK A. WING has been a resident of Seattle for nearly six years, and has during that time been identified with the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company as superintendent of its Pacific Northwest department, with full control of the company's business in Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Utah. He was born in Streetsborough, Ohio, January 8, 1853, and received his early schooling at Galesburg, Michigan. At the age of sixteen he became a salesman in a dry goods establishment in the neighboring city of Battle Creek and remained two years, then took a partial collegiate course at Olivet College, and was later associated with his father in the grain and milling business, until he formed a connection with J. K. Boies & Co., of Hudson, Michigan, in banking and general merchandising. After engaging in the dry goods business at Hastings, Nebraska, and loaning money at Fort Scott, Kansas, he came to Seattle just previous to the great fire of 1889.

Representative Witt—GEORGE M. WITT, of Lincoln County, was born on a farm near Georgetown, Tennessee, January 20, 1863. His boyhood days were spent on the farm and attending school at the Georgetown Academy, where he received his education. In the spring of 1885, hearing of the wonderful Big Bend country, he emigrated to the Territory of Washington, and in the spring of 1886 located on a farm near Horrington, where he has resided ever since. He cast his first vote in 1884 for the Greenback Labor party. He helped to organize the People's party in Lincoln County in 1892 and was nominated by that party for Representative.

Representative Williams—SOLON T. WILLIAMS, of Seattle, was born at Lawrence, Kansas, October 4, 1860. He took a seven years' course at the State University of Kansas, and graduated from that institution in 1880. He then studied law for two years in the office of Solon O. Thatcher, one of the ablest jurists in the State of Kansas, and was admitted to the bar in 1882. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Lawrence, and in 1886 was elected police judge of that city. In the year 1888 he received an appointment under the interstate commerce commission and removed to Washington City, whence he came to Seattle in the fall of 1890. He served one year as Assistant Corporation Counsel of Seattle, under Judge Orange Jacobs. In February, 1892, he became a member of the firm of Jenner, Legg & Williams. In 1886 he married Miss Carrie Dickerson at Washington City.

Chief Clerk Finch—EDWARD C. FINCH, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, was born February 2, 1862, at Lebanon, Ohio. His parents moved to Michigan in 1866, and there he resided, except during a portion of his school years spent in Ohio, until 1882, when he came to this Coast—first to California, thence, in 1883, to Washington Territory. In April, of that year, he located at Montesano, Chehalis County, where, for about two years, he was engaged in the real estate business. Soon after the town of Aberdeen was laid out, in 1885, he became a resident of that place, where he has since resided and is now editor and proprietor of the Weekly Recorder. Mr. Finch is and always has been an uncompromising Republican, and has during these years figured to a considerable extent in Territorial and State politics. He was a delegate to the last Territorial Convention of his party at Ellensburg, and to its first State Convention at Walla Walla, and its last at Spokane, and in the meantime has attended numerous State and County Conventions, in a like capacity. At the State Convention of 1890, at Tacoma, he was elected a member of the Republican State Central Committee. He was married August 4, 1894, at Portland, Oregon, to Miss Anna M. Pierson.

Sergeant-at-Arms Lovell—MAJOR DON G. LOVELL, Sergeant-at Arms of the House, is a resident of Tacoma, to which city he removed in 1883. He was born in Michigan September 13, 1841, and after receiving a common school education spent two years, from 1859, at learning a trade. He has a brilliant military record. He enlisted May 10, 1861, as a private in Company A, Third Michigan Infantry; commissioned as a second lieutenant, Company F, Sixth Michigan Cavalry, Custer's Brigade; mustered out of the service as a major on the 24th day of January, 1865; was wounded three times and participated in fifty-one battles. He left Michigan in 1871 for Colorado, and twelve years later came to Washington.

Reading Clerk Carroll—HARRY W. CARROLL has merited public favor through his courteous and efficient performance of the duties of

HARRY W. CARROLL

Reading Clerk in the House, during the third and fourth sessions of the Legislature. Mr. Carroll has been a resident of Seattle since 1889, although much of his time since has been spent in official positions at Olympia. Nearly a year ago he was appointed Deputy City Comptroller of Seattle, which duties he will resume after adjournment of the Legislature. He was born in Sacramento September 4, 1858, and was educated in the University of California, graduating in the school of mines. He was successively in the military staff of Governors Stone- man, Bartlett and Waterman of his native state and is now on the retired list of the National Guard of California, and is a Free Mason of high rank. During the Twenty-seventh session of the State Legislature of California, Mr. Carroll was a Representative in that body from Sacramento.

Joseph L. Thatcher—of Whatcom County, is Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms of the House. "Genial Joe," as he is familiarly known, was born in Rutland County, Vermont, on March 3, 1852, leaving there with his parents and removing when he was a boy to McClain County, Illinois. He was educated in the Normal and Weslyn Schools, of Bloomington, Illinois, and afterwards followed the railroad business for a few years. He came to Washington in 1878 and located in Seattle. He engaged in the hotel and steamboat business, which he continues to follow. He removed to Whatcom in 1890.

Paul Holbrook—Assistant Secretary to Governor McGraw, was born October 14, 1870, at Plattsmouth, Nebraska. He received his early education in the public schools of Framingham, Massachusetts, and Minneapolis, Minnesota. In the fall of 1887 he entered an advanced class in Shattuck Military Academy, at Faribault, Minnesota, graduating with honors in the spring of 1890, being one of six in a class of thirty to rank highest in their studies. Later in the year 1890 he accepted a position as computer in the office of the city engineer at Seattle, where he remained about a year. After a short service as stenographer with the King County Fair and Agricultural Association he entered the banking house of the Guarantee Loan & Trust Company, of Seattle. There he served in various capacities for three years, leaving the bank to enter upon his duties in November, 1894.

There are three ex-farmers, and dozens of others not now farmers were raised on farms.

HON. HUGH C. WALLACE.

SENATORIAL POSSIBILITIES.

Hon. John S. McMillan.

JOHN S. McMILLAN, of Roche Harbor, San Juan County, had a number of ardent friends in the Republican membership of the Fourth Legislature, who voted for him both in caucus and on joint ballot, for United States Senator. There was a strong probability at one time that Mr. McMillan would receive the united support of his party as a compromise candidate, as he was popular with all factions. Mr. McMillan is a native of Tippecanoe County, Indiana, having been born on a farm in 1855. At the age of sixteen he entered the Indiana Asbury University, now De Pauw University. He took a classical course and graduated in 1876 with the degree of A. B., and three years later received the degree of A. M., delivering the "master's oration" for that year. He studied law with Judge D. P. Vinton, of Lafayette, Indiana, and practiced in the highest courts of that state until 1884, when he came to Washington. He was admitted to the bar here, but, having bought a fourth interest in the Tacoma Lime Company, he took the management of the business and works. He extended his operations and is now president and general manager of the Tacoma & Roche Harbor Lime Company, and in that capacity has demonstrated wonderful executive and business capacity. Mr. McMillan was married in 1877 to a Miss Hiatt, who had been a schoolmate in his boyhood. They are living quietly and pleasantly together at Roche Harbor. They have two bright boys aged twelve and fourteen years and one daughter aged two years. Mr. McMillan is a fine speaker and is thoroughly posted on all public questions. He is a parliamentarian of great ability and as a presiding officer has few superiors. In 1892 Mr. McMillan was elected a Presidential Elector, receiving the highest vote cast for any name on the Republican ticket.

Hugh C. Wallace.

HUGH C. WALLACE, who represents Washington State on the Democratic National Committee, was the caucus nominee of his party in the Fourth Legislature for the United States Senatorship. In the session of 1893 he also received votes for Senator. Since coming to this State nearly eight years ago Mr. Wallace has been particularly active in politics and has devoted much of his time and contributed liberally towards advancing the cause of Democracy. With the national administration he is in high favor, and his recommendation is generally regarded as the stepping stone to political preferment. After President Cleveland's last election Mr. Wallace's name was strongly presented for a cabinet portfolio. He was born at Lexington, Missouri, in 1864 and for a man so young in years Mr. Wallace has had a remarkably successful business and political career. When he was but twelve years of age his parents removed to Kansas City, where after completing his education he engaged in the coal business, continuing it later in Mexico. When but twenty-two years of age he was appointed Receiver of Public Moneys at Utah, but soon after resigned the office to come to the Evergreen State. He located in Tacoma and engaged in the real estate and banking business. Three years ago Mr. Wallace was married to a daughter of Chief Justice of the United States Melville W. Fuller, of Illinois.

Colonel Lewis.

COLONEL JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS is a Southerner, born in Virginia, spending his boyhood in Georgia. He came to Seattle about nine years ago, when he was twenty-two years of age. He was a senator in the last Territorial Senate which sat just preceding admission to statehood, his district being the Counties of King, Snohomish and Skagit. He was, as is well remembered, the unanimous nominee of his party for governor in the State convention of 1892, but declined because he was not agreeable to the sentiments of the platform, particularly on the "canal issue." Colonel Lewis' rank in the brilliant leadership of the bar of the State is a matter his political opponents take pride in conceding as fully as claimed by his many friends. He was the other Democrat who, with Mr. Wallace, received the caucus vote of the Democrats in the Legislature of 1895 for United States Senator.

FIRST TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE.

The Territory of Washington was organized by an act of Congress passed March 2, 1853. Isaac I. Stevens was appointed the first Governor. He issued a proclamation on November 28 designating January 30, 1854, as the day for the first election of members of the Legislature, and February 27 as the time for meeting, at Olympia.

As a result of the election the Council was composed of nine members, as follows: Clarke County, D. F. Bradford, William H. Tappan; Lewis and Pacific Counties, Seth Catlin, Henry Miles; Thurston County, D. R. Bigelow, B. F. Yantis; Pierce and King Counties, Lafayette Balch, G. N. McConaha; Jefferson and Island Counties, William P. Sayward.

The House consisted of eighteen members apportioned as follows: Clarke County, F. A. Chenoweth, Henry R. Crosbie, A. J. Bolan, John D. Biles and A. C. Lewis; Island County, Samuel D. Howe; Jefferson County, Daniel F. Brownfield; King County, A. A. Denny; Lewis County, H. D. Huntington and John R. Jackson; Pacific County, John Scudder; Pierce County, H. C. Moseley, L. F. Thompson and John M. Chapman; Thurston County, David Shelton, C. H. Hale, L. D. Durgin and Ira Ward, Jr.

HENRY DRUM, Deputy Collector of Customs at Tacoma, has been a prominent figure in both political and commercial interests in Washington.

He was born in Illinois thirty-six years ago and procured a collegiate education that well fitted him for life's battles. After coming to Washington he engaged in various business enterprises, including that of banking. He had the honor to represent Pierce County in the first session of the State Senate held in 1889-90, being the only Democrat in that body. In the Second Senate he was one of four Democrats. Mr. Drum represented Washington during the World's Fair as a United States Commissioner. He was appointed by Governor McGraw as a Trustee of the State Reform School at Chehalis. In the early part of January, 1895, he accepted the office of Deputy Collector of Customs. Mr. Drum has long been one of the leaders of Democracy in Washington and has acceptably served his party for several years as Chairman of the State Central Committee.

DR. JAMES HAMILTON McDONALD, Chinese Inspector with headquarters at Olympia, was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, November 1, 1840. Left an orphan at four years of age, he came to the United States in 1848, locating in Venango County, Pennsylvania, where he became naturalized in 1862. In 1865 while engaged in the oil business in West Virginia he married Miss Virginia P. L. Rust, a sister of Senator Rust, of Kentucky. In 1867 they moved to Lebanon Mission, where in 1872 Mr. McDonald was elected Surveyor of Laclede County and in 1874 and 1876 was elected to the Legislature. Studied medicine and graduated from the American Medical College; moved to St. Louis in 1877 and engaged in practice; was appointed Government Physician at the Pine Ridge Indian Agency; resigned in 1888 and went to San Jose, California; removed to Dayton, Washington, in 1889, and has since continued to reside there. In 1890 he was appointed a member of the State Medical Examining Board for two years; reappointed for three years in September, 1892. In September, 1893, Mr. McDonald was appointed by Secretary Carlisle as a Chinese Inspector. Besides his other accomplishments Mr. McDonald is also an ordained minister.

B. F. JOSSEY, Chinese Inspector with headquarters at Tacoma, is a native of the State of Georgia, where he was born forty-one years ago. He came from Macon, Georgia, to Washington in 1889, and in June of that year entered into the retail grocery business. After a short but successful career he sold out the business in January, 1893. He was appointed Immigrant Inspector in November 1893, and promoted to his present position in August 1894, on the merits of effective work done in detecting frauds upon the revenues of the government.

REGISTER JESSE F. MURPHY

the age of twenty his life was passed upon a farm, with limited opportunity for schooling. In 1879 he entered the South Salem Presbyterian Academy, where he remained for two years and then taught school. Later he went on the road as a commercial traveler for Osborne Harvesting Machine Company of Auburn, New York. In 1885 he was married and then engaged in the insurance, real estate and loan business, in which he continued after going to Olympia in 1888. His career there and his active participation in politics is well known. His work in the Democratic field has been untiring and in state and county politics he has always been found in the front ranks of the Democratic party. In 1890 he was elected to membership in the First Democratic State Central Committee, and re-elected again in 1892. Mr. Murphy was appointed to a position in the library of the House during the Fifty-second Congress by Hon. James Kerr, Clerk of the House of Representatives. On April 12, 1894, he was appointed to the position he now holds by President Cleveland for a period of four years. For this position he had the support of the leading Democrats of the State of Washington, his principal champion with the president, however, being Hon. William L. Wilson of West Virginia.

ARTHUR L. SLEMMONS, Receiver of the Land Office at North Yakima, was born January 31, 1864, in Wayne County, Ohio. He graduated from the University of Worster and left immediately thereafter for Minnesota, where he remained until coming to Washington. He located at Ellensburg in 1887, and received the appointment as Receiver of Land Office at North Yakima in February, 1894.

RECEIVER A. L. SLEMMONS

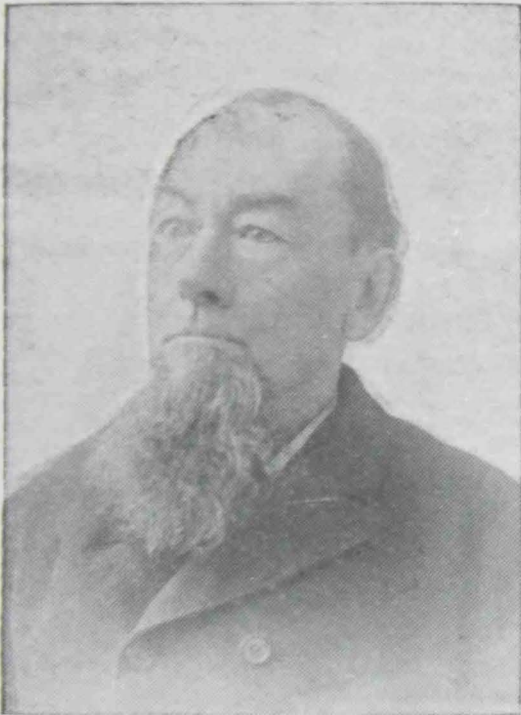

RECEIVER E. K. HAWKINS

EDWIN K. HAWKINS, the Receiver of the United States Land Office at Olympia, was born in North Carolina near the City of Henderson, Franklin County, on February 11, 1852, being a member of one of the oldest and most influential families in the "Old North State." He was educated at private home schools, Wilson's and Bingham's schools, North Carolina, and graduated at the Virginia Military Institute, at Lexington, Virginia, in 1873. He then entered the banking and commission house of Hawkins & Co., Baltimore, Maryland, and afterwards he became the assistant cashier of the banking and commission house of Vaiden, Hawkins & Co., New Orleans, Louisiana. In 1888 he made an extended trip through the west, and on returning east settled and practiced law in Clinton, Kentucky. In 1889 he returned west and settled in Aberdeen, Washington, and was one of the organizers of the Aberdeen Land and Improvement Company. He afterwards commenced the practice of his profession of law and entered the office of N. W. Bush, practicing in the superior and supreme courts.

UNITED STATES INTERNAL REVENUE.

This State is included in the collection district of Oregon, which comprises the States of Oregon and Washington and the Territory of Alaska. The revenue derived from Washington annually aggregates about $250,000. Of this sum about one-half reaches the main office at Portland, Oregon, presided over by Hon. Henry Blackman, collector of the district, direct from payers of the revenue tax. The other $125,000 is received in the office of Mr. J. P. Gleason, deputy collector at Seattle. This is the only stamp office in the State, and here is collected the revenue, both in special tax and stamp tax, for Western Washington. To Washington is assigned four deputy collectors, located as follows: J. P. Gleason, Seattle; Laurence O'Brien, Tacoma; John Nestor, Spokane; John Leahy, Walla Walla.

LAURENCE O'BRIEN

J. P. GLEASON

LAURENCE O'BRIEN, of Tacoma, was born in Belleville, Canada, fifty-eight years ago. When twenty years of age he emigrated to Chicago, Illinois, in which city he cast his first vote for Stephen A. Douglas for president. He came to Tacoma, Washington, in 1889, and in 1894 was appointed Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Oregon, with headquarters at Tacoma.

JAMES P. GLEASON, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue at Seattle, is a graduate of Albert College, Dublin, Ireland, taking degrees and standing second in the class of 1882, whilst yet in his seventeenth year. Upo leaving college he at once returned to Utica, New York, his ancestors being amongst the early settlers of Oneida County. In 1883 he left his home at Utica and came west to Sterling, Illinois, and after a short sojourn there engaged in the general merchandise business with his uncle, Hon. Timothy Hughes, at Ishpeming, Michigan. In the fall of 1888 Mr. Gleason came to Seattle. Since taking up his residence in the Queen City his life has been that of an active, progressive and enterprising citizen, having been vigilant in promoting Seattle's interests in many public enterprises and improvements. He is keen and sagacious in business, frank and genial in his manner, kind and generous in his nature, and deservedly popular with a host of friends. In politics he is an earnest Democrat and always active in the councils of his party. He was appointed Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue in March, 1894, by Hon. Henry Blackman, Collector of the District of Oregon, and has proven a most efficient officer in the service of the government. He is thirty-one years of age and unmarried.

JOHN N. SCOTT, Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Washington and Alaska, was born at Oxford, Ohio, of John

COMMANDER J. N. SCOTT

W. Scott, D. D., and Mary N. Scott, February 15, 1836. Educated at Miami University of Oxford, Ohio; commenced study of law in Indianapolis, Indiana, with Wallace & Harrison in 1857; commenced practice of the law in Shelbyville, Indiana, in 1859; was appointed Examiner of Pensions in Washington City in latter part of 1861; resigned to enter military service as Captain, Company E, Seventy-ninth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, in August, 1862. On being disabled for field duty by reason of wounds received in the service, was appointed paymaster in the army April 7, 1864. Served as such until close of war. Resumed practice after close of war at Shelbyville, Indiana, where he was immediately elected city attorney.

In May, 1866, removed to Indianapolis, Indiana, and commenced practice of his profession. Elected Judge of City Court of Indianapolis in May, 1867. In the spring of 1889 on account of ill health, he removed to Port Townsend, Washington. Was then appointed Superintendent of Construction of the United States Customs House, Post Office, etc., and under him the building was completed. Is now engaged in practice of the law at Port Townsend. Is a member of Farragut Post No. 15, and was twice elected its Commander. On June 22 last he was elected Department Commander, and is now serving as such. Is also a member of the Washington Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States of America, the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, and the Seventy-ninth Indiana Veteran Association.

S. A. Perkins—was one of the most familiar figures at Olympia during the Fourth Legislative session. As President of the Third House he won distinction through the effective manner in which he directed his efforts in the interests of a score or more young ladies who procured clerkships. He also was a strong supporter of John L. Wilson for United States Senator. Mr. Perkins is chairman for Washington, Oregon and Idaho of the National American Republican League and President of the McKinley Republican Club, which has a membership of nearly a thousand. He was born in Boston May 6, 1860, and moved to Washington in September, 1888. For three years he was engaged in the wholesale drug business under the firm name of Bonney & Perkins. He resides at Tacoma and at present is general manager of the Washington

Fruit Land Improvement Company.

The Presiding Officers.

The contest for the Speakership of the Fourth House of Representatives of the State Legislature resulted as follows: Ellis Morrison, of King, Republican, fifty-six votes; Charles E. Cline, of Whatcom, Populist, nineteen votes; Dr. D. E. Biggs, of Whatcom, Democrat, three votes. Dr. Biggs and Mr. Cline each voted for Morrison, and Mr. Morrison voted for Dr. Biggs. Senator B. C. Van Houten, of Spokane, was elected President pro tem. of the Senate.

WASHINGTON'S FOREIGN TRADE.

To accurately estimate the importance and continual development of foreign shipping of the Puget Sound district, it is but necessary to examine the shipping tables. The number of vessels that cleared and the amount of tonnage in 1894 was 1,580 vessels with an aggregate tonnage of 942,941, an increase of 243 vessels, with a combined tonnage of 47,455 tons. About the same relative increase is noticed in the entrances, showing an actual gain over 1893 of 271 vessels, with a total tonnage of 88,135 tons. As a shipping district Puget Sound ranks second in the United States, being slightly exceeded by New York.

During the past two years the Puget Sound lumber sellers have opened up new markets in the middle and eastern states as well as in various parts of the world. During 1894 the shipments of lumber to foreign markets aggregated 86,147,790 feet, valued at $769,190. The carload shipments of lumber and shingles, during the period stated, via Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific Railroads included 4,279 cars of lumber and 12,295 cars of shingles.

The wheat shipments for the year ending November 30, 1894, were 4,289,994 bushels, valued at $2,089,223, and show an increase over the same period in 1892 of nearly 1,000,000 bushels, which is also an increase of about 400,000 bushels over 1893. During the past year wheat has been shipped to Germany, Scotland, Japan and other new markets. In 1892 and previous years shippers valued wheat at $1.05 a bushel, but during 1894 the valuation decreased fully seventy-five per cent., which, in comparing valuation with previous years, makes a vast difference.

In two years the flour exports increased from 130,844 barrels in 1892 to 295,907 barrels, valued at $726,021 in 1894, an increase of 160,000 barrels. The principal consumers are importers of the Orient, the tabular statement indicating the rapid manner in which the trade has been built up with China and Japan. Should the trade continue to develop for the next seven years in the same proportions, Puget Sound will have become the largest flour exporting district in the United States.

The importation of foreign commodities into the State of Washington for immediate consumption shows a steady increase in each of the past three years. In 1894 the value was $1,525,917, an increase over 1892 of nearly $1,000,000. The export trade last year was $5,247,288, or about $150,000 less than 1892, but it was an increase of nearly $250,000 over 1893. The depression is owing to the falling off of lumber shipments. In estimating the volume of imports a statement of goods in transit through the district from foreign ports en route in bond to eastern cities must likewise be considered. In 1894 these commodities, which consisted principally of teas, silks, curios, porcelain and other Oriental products, were valued at $5,099,862. Goods to the value of $488,550 were also received for trans-shipment in bond to other foreign ports.

The total receipts of the Puget Sound Customs District for 1894 aggregate $260,628.40.

FACTS ABOUT WASHINGTON.

It is called the "Evergreen State."

Area in acres in Washington, 44,796,160.

Washington shore line inside, 1,992 miles.

Area in square miles of Washington, 69,994.

Area of tide water inside, 1,258 square miles.

Area of Straits of Juan de Fuca, 318 square miles.

Channel line from Victoria to Olympia, 117 miles.

Total tide water in Washington, 1,576 square miles.

From Victoria to Cape Flattery, seventy-two miles.

Area of Lake Washington, fresh water, forty-one square miles.

Shore line from Cape Flattery to Columbia River, 170 miles.

Distance by sea from Cape Flattery to Columbia River, 156 miles.

There were thirty-four counties in the State when admitted into the union.

The population of Washington quadrupled in ten years (from 1880 to 1890).

Area of Lake Chelan, the largest body of fresh water in the State, sixty-five square miles.

In Washington, in 1880, the total area devoted to cereals aggregated 136,937 acres; in 1890, 500,671 acres.

The first census of Washington Territory taken in 1853 showed 3,965 inhabitants, of whom 1,682 were voters.

There were 605 United States pensioners in the State in 1886; 900 in 1887; 1,221 in 1888; 1,741 in 1889, and 2,115 in 1890.

The increase of assessed valuation of property from 1880 to 1890 in this State was $179,905,257. Per capita in 1890, $583.06; in 1880, $316.99.

The State of Washington was born November 11, 1889, at 5:20 p. m., and the event was announced by telegram at Olympia at 7:45 p. m., the same day.

The waters of Puget Sound, the rivers emptying therein, and the ocean adjacent to the Straits of Fuca, abound with food fishes. There are so many varieties of food fish and in such quantity as to warrant the assertion that the fisheries of this State will become fully as valuable as those of the North Atlantic.

The mineral wealth of Washington cannot be estimated. The precious metals are distributed over a wide area and promise enormous development of wealth. Gold, silver, lead, copper, tin, asbestos, graphite, limestone, marble, granite, sandstone are to be added to coal and iron. All these combined furnish an opulence of mineral resources rarely encountered in a single field.

Ocosta-by-the-Sea, in Chehalis County, the Pacific Ocean terminus of the Northern Pacific Railroad, is further west than any railroad terminus in the United States.

The increase in per cent of assessed valuation in this State from 1880 to 1890 was 755.56; in per cent of population, 365.13. Only one state surpassed us in the latter—North Dakota.

In the Puget Sound customs district there are 324 vessels documented, with a combined tonnage aggregating 89,292.60 tons. Of this number 151 are sailing vessels with a tonnage of 61,163.76 tons; 172 are steamers with a combined tonnage of 27,403.95; and one barge of 684.83 tons.

Washington lies between the forty-sixth and forty-ninth parallels of north latitude, and the one hundred and seventeenth and the one hundred and twenty-fifth meridians of longitude west from Greenwich. Its greatest width north and south is 240 miles, and its greatest length east and west is 360 miles, an area in round numbers of nearly 70,000 square miles, or about 45,000,000 acres of land, and being divided by the Cascade range of mountains into two unequal and entirely dissimilar sections, known as Eastern and Western Washington. The former contains about 50,000 square miles and the latter about 20,000, according to statistical classification. It is estimated that 20,000,000 acres are timbered, 10,000,000 acres grain producing prairie land, 5,000,000 acres rich alluvial or river bottom, producing hops, hay and all kinds of fruit and vegetables, and 10,000,000 acres mineral bearing and mountainous, in great part timbered also.

JUDGE ELMON SCOTT

COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC LANDS FORREST

Hon. Scott Sweetland—Chairman Republican State Central Committee, was born in Tipton, Cedar County, Iowa, October 4, 1859. He came west to California in 1875, locating in San Francisco, and to Washington in 1880, locating in Vancouver, where he still resides. He was appointed by President Harrison Receiver of the United States Land Office at Vancouver in 1889, holding the office until May 7, 1894; was a member of the Republican State Central Committee from 1880 to 1890; also a member of the Executive Committee of 1882; was elected Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee in September, 1894, which position he now holds. Mr. Sweetland has for many years past been an active worker in the cause of Republicanism, and at the same time has been able to retain the confidence and respect of his political opponents.

PRESS REPRESENTATIVES AT OLYMPIA.

The correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer during the senatorial contest was John W. Pratt, who had been on the staff of the paper for nearly five years, but has latterly been practicing law. Mr. Pratt was born at Inveresk, Scotland, and had his first experience in newspaper work in Edinburg. He spent several years traveling in Europe and Africa; he enjoyed the diversified pursuits of diamond buying on the fields of Griqualand West, gold digging in the Transvaal, ostrich farming in the Graff Reinet district, and dispensing justice as a Resident Magistrate. He also served in a mounted company as a volunteer in the Kafir war. He was afterward for a time managing editor of the New York World, but his health failing under the close confinement he started roaming again, settling in San Francisco, where he was city editor of the Morning Call, then owned by the late Loring Pickering; thence he came to Seattle for the Post-Intelligencer. He read law in the Middle Temple, London, and is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of this State. He was for a short time owner of the Seattle Press-Times; among other work he compiled the statutes, charter and ordinances of the city of Seattle.

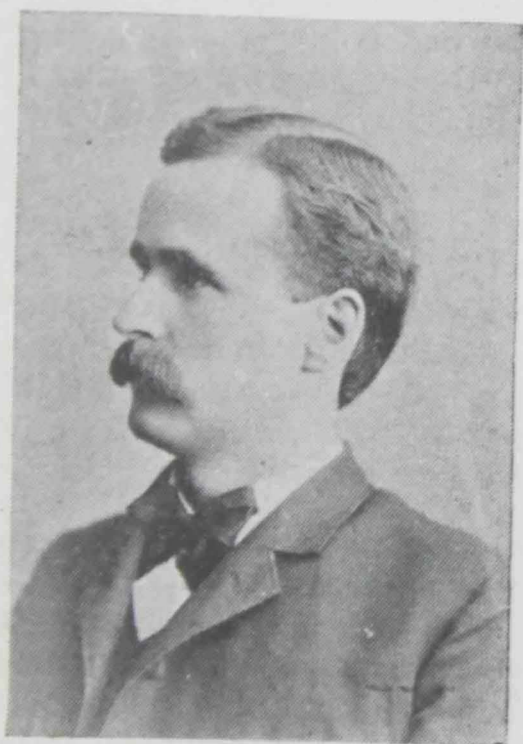

GEORGE U. PIPER was born May 2, 1866, at Warsaw, Indiana. He began his journalistic career in 1888 as a reporter on the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. In the fall of 1891, he with his brother Edgar B. Piper, purchased the Seattle Press-Times, which they conducted for nearly two years. In 1892 he did newspaper work upon the San Francisco press, and became a member of the Portland Oregonian staff in August 1894. Beginning with the Constitutional Convention, George Piper has been a legislative correspondent in Washington ever since statehood, the exception being the session two years ago. The Oregonian, because of its large clientele in this State, is usually looked to for unbiased reports of legislative matters, as the paper is published outside the confines of the commonwealth, and one of the best men from the home staff is always sent to Olympia to report the legislative proceedings.

J. HOWARD WATSON

GEORGE U. PIPER

J. E. BALLAINE

WILLIAM K. ESLING

J. E. BALLAINE, legislative correspondent of the Tacoma Ledger, was born in Louisa County, Iowa, September 2, 1868. He came to Washington in 1879 and began newspaper work on the Spokane Spokesman; was editor of the Colfax Gazette two years; has been with the Tacoma Ledger since the summer of 1893.

WILLIAM K. ESLING, legislative correspondent for the Associated Press, was born in Philadelphia February 19, 1868. He graduated from Girard College and was apprenticed to the printing business. Was, for three years, with the Philadelphia Record, and came to Washington just before statehood. In May, 1890, the Evening Tribune, the first daily newspaper published in Olympia for many years, was issued, with Mr. Esling as city editor. He has been identified with Olympia newspapers ever since, and has been a legislative correspondent during each session since statehood.

ALBERT SEARL was born on April 10, 1865, in the city of Baltimore, Maryland. He first began newspaper work on the Cincinnati Evening Post as a reporter in 1885. Has been employed on the Omaha and Denver papers, and was for two years connected with the Los Angeles papers, and for a similar period with the papers of San Francisco, notably the Examiner. His first work in this State was as extra reporter upon the Seattle Post-Intelligencer in 1890; was later city editor of the Seattle Journal. Went to Port Townsend in the summer of 1891 and the following year secured a third interest in the Leader of that city. Has been telegraph editor of the Seattle Press-Times and manager of the Tacoma Union. Mr. Searl was during the legislative session of 1895 the Olympia correspondent for the Tacoma News, the Seattle Press-Times, and the Portland Sun.

CHARLES EDWARD O'BRIEN represented the United Press Association at the legislative session of 1895. He was born at Belleville, Canada, September 9, 1870, and is a son of Deputy Revenue Collector Laurence O'Brien, of Tacoma. After completing his education the young man served an apprenticeship at the plumbing and steam-fitting trade. He is possessed of considerable energy and ability, which will serve him well in the newspaper field, which profession he expects to follow.

J. HOWARD WATSON, the legislative correspondent of the Spokesman-Review, has had a newspaper experience of nearly twenty years. He was born in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, August 15, 1858, and first began newspaper work in Sunbury, Ohio. During his early career he owned newspapers in Mt. Vernon and Newark, Ohio, and in 1879-80 had his first metropolitan experience in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and Washington, D. C. Mr. Watson went to Chicago in 1882 and for about four years was on the staff of the Daily News, being reporter, assistant city editor and telegraph editor. He was with the City Press Association a long time and was city editor of the Evening Mail in the prosperous days of that newspaper. In February 1890 Mr. Watson came to Spokane and, with Joseph French Johnson, founded the Spokane Spokesman, which two years ago consolidated with the Review. He was city editor, business manager and managing editor respectively of the old Spokesman, and the memory of that paper is still the yard stick by which good newspapers are measured in Spokane by the public. He has been legislative correspondent for three sessions. Mr. Watson has selected as his home a pretty spot on Lake Chelan, the brightest scenic gem in the mountain lakes of the northwest, and spends his summers there. He is married and has one child.

FEDERAL STATIONS.

There are three life saving stations on the Pacific Coast of Washington, one at Shoalwater Bay (Willapa Harbor), one at Ilwaco Beach, thirteen miles north of Cape Hancock, one at Cape Disappointment (Hancock), Baker's Bay. The United States military posts in the State are at Vancouver, Walla Walla, Fort Spokane (twenty-five miles from Davenport), Fort Townsend (near Port Townsend). There is a United States ordnance depot at Vancouver. A United States naval station has been established at Port Orchard, Kitsap County.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Edward S. Orr—Mayor of Tacoma, was elected to his present position in April 1894, on the Republican ticket. He has been a resident of in San Juan and Trinidad. Coming further west he invested in mining properties in the British Columbia and Okanogan regions.

Tacoma for six years, and in 1889 formed the real estate firm of Hill, Orr & Craig. He represented the First Ward one term in the City Council. Mr. Orr was born in Clarion County, Pennsylvania, in 1850. He received a common school education and later attended the Carrier Seminary at Clarion, Clarion County, from the eighteenth to the twenty-second year of his life. He then engaged in contracting in the oil regions of Pennsylvania, and in 1877 moved to Wichita, Kansas, where he was engaged in stock raising and farming, but his health failing a year after went to Colorado, where he became interested in gold mining and milling and followed the business for eleven years, his operations being principally whose administration has been characterized by continuous effort and marked ability in looking after the legal rights of the "City of Destiny." Mr. Wickersham was born in Marion County, Illinois, August 24, 1857. Studied law in office of Senator John M. Palmer at Springfield, Illinois, 1877-1880. Was connected with legal department of tenth census at Springfield, Illinois, from 1880 to 1883. Came to Tacoma in June, 1883. Was elected Probate Judge of Pierce County in 1884 and served two terms; appointed City Attorney of Tacoma in 1894.

Dr. J. Eugene Jordan—member of the Board of Aldermen in the city of Seattle, prepared two bills of great importance which were introduced in the Fourth Legislature. Their intent is to prevent fraud at the polls, to destroy every chance for stealing stamped ballots in the interest of vote buyers, and to make voting compulsory. Dr. Jordan is truly a champion of the rights of the common people, and during his three years service in city council has always labored in the interests of the masses as against the aggressions of corporations and public beneficiaries. He was elected by the combined Populist and Democratic vote, his name appearing on the tickets of both these organizations. He has frequently been mentioned for Mayor of Seattle and various State offices, but has always refused to seek political recognition. As a Populist he styles himself as a true Jeffersonian. To this great Republican he refers all his arguments for money and government control of highways, with opposition to land monopoly. As a former Democrat, his antipathy to Cleveland and his financial policy are strongly proclaimed. Consistency has been the one prevailing characteristic of Dr. Jordan's public service. In his private life and conversation is found the precept to such actions as have distinguished his official career. He is a strong silver advocate and an ardent believer and teacher of the Henry George system of taxation. In the advocacy of the single tax theory he has expended much of his time and considerable money. In his supersensitive regard for personal liberty as opposed to the restraints of the social compact of government, Dr. Jordan is found continuously aiding the cause of the poor and friendless. In consequence of his many admirable traits of character, the doctor enjoys the esteem and respect of a large circle of friends, who are not limited to the confines of King County but are scattered throughout the entire State. Dr. Jordan is well versed in science and literature and has traveled extensively in foreign lands. He is a graduate of the University of Heidelberg, Germany, and for several years held a chair in Hahnemann College, Chicago. He has resided in Seattle ten years.

James W. McCauley—City Treasurer of Tacoma, was elected to that position on the Republican ticket by an overwhelming majority. He is a loyal son of old Kentucky, having been born at Ballard, in that state, in 1844. When but a child he went with his parents to Richview, Illinois, where he grew up to man's estate and acquired a sound business education. On the breaking out of the civil war he enlisted in Company B of the Sixty-second Regiment of Illinois Volunteers and put in four years of continuous service. After the war he was connected with different business enterprises in Illinois and Nebraska until 1881, when he came to the Pacific Coast, settling permanently in Tacoma about five years ago. Since his arrival there he has been constantly engaged in business, in which he has achieved gratifying success. Personally he is YOUNGEST MEMBER OF THE HOUSE.

HERBERT S. CONNER, Representative from the Forty-sixth District, has the distinction of being the youngest member of the Fourth Legislature. He was born in Nevada City, Colorado, September 3, 1866, and consequently is but little more than twenty-eight years of age. In January, 1870, Mr. Conner's father moved to Skagit County, Washington, and founded the city of La Conner, so named in honor of the mother of the subject of this sketch. Between the years 1875 and 1880 Herbert spent considerable time on his father's farm and upon the death of the latter, took charge of the family estate, comprising a large area of lands in various parts of the State. Mr. Conner is one of the promising young men of Washington. He was elected a delegate to the Republican State Convention of 1894, and subsequently was elected to the Legislature by a pronounced majority over his opponents.
