THE POWER MONOPOLY

ITS MAKE-UP AND ITS MENACE

BY GIFFORD PINCHOT

Is there a Nation-wide, organized, persistent movement to monopolize the electrical powers of the United States?

Is there an electric monopoly?

And if there is a power monopoly, has it been organized and financed for economical production and efficient service, with fair rates to the public, and fair profits for the power corporations and their investors?

Or are we facing a power monopoly organized and financed to secure the profits of extortion by the arrogant abuse of unregulated, unrestrained privilege?

As a private citizen, as a Federal official, and as the Governor of a State, I have given much time and some money to a conscientious study of the electric question. For years I have been in almost constant communication and consultation with many serious students of electric power, who have been spurred on in their investigations by deep-seated and public-spirited apprehension over the vision of our country entering the great electric era of world competition under the handicap of excessive cost of electricity, the one great modern driving power turning the wheels of our domestic, commercial and industrial life.

The sum total of these investigations and studies is the positive and well-supported conclusion that a Nation-wide, organized, persistent, increasing movement to monopolize the electric power of these United States actually does exist.

There is an electric power monopoly.

Moreover, there is an electric power monopoly organized and financed, not for fair and efficient public service, but for ruthless exploitation, uninterrupted and unrestrained by anything approaching effective Government intervention or control.

We need not be surprised that State and Federal authorities have stood in awe before this gigantic Nation-wide power monopoly, because beside it, as its creator, financial supporter, and master, stands the concentrated money power of the United States, which today is the dominating money power of the world.

This dominating money power has seized upon the electric power resources of our country with a full realization of the fact that before very many years it will be not "the hand that rocks the cradle," but the hand that turns the electric switch that will rule the land.

Therefore the electric power monopoly deserves the fullest public attention. The people ought to know what it is, and why it is, and how it affects them. All the facts about it ought to be publicly available, either through Governmental agencies or through private effort. The people must learn to judge intelligently of its advantages and of its evils. Everything about it should be investigated fearlessly and published fully, because we must learn to regulate and control it before it smothers and enslaves us.

This pamphlet is intended as a contribution to public knowledge of the electric power monopoly. It is also intended to point the way for the additional authentic information needed for adequate protective legislation.

The power monopoly study submitted in this publication covers 4,362 corporations, which are listed alphabetically in Appendix "A." This list of power corporations may or may not be entirely complete. But it has attained so near to absolute completeness that it is without doubt the most complete list ever compiled or published. It includes the big holding companies, the smaller holding companies, companies owned or controlled by the holding companies, and what few independent companies remain.

Some minor companies of recent origin, and some companies so long ago absorbed or dissolved that no current records are available, may be missing from this list, but that the list is practically complete, and does give a full view and a true view of the electric power industry is proved by the fact that one division of the corporations here listed—that of the 41 big holding companies—alone accounts for 82 percent of the electric energy produced in the United States.

In order to make the list as complete as possible, the listed companies also include those subsidiary organizations of power companies which are not engaged in the electrical power business, but through which electric holding companies control coal, coke, gas, water, street railways, bus lines, bridges, lumber, real estate, amusement parks, and other interests contributing to their monopoly.

The records of corporations in this report are given as nearly as possible as of June 30, 1927, with the nearest applicable and available financial and statistical figures—for the most part as of December 31, 1926.

Constant changes, never-ceasing mergers or consolidations, in the never-sleeping zeal to concentrate extortionate control in fewer and fewer hands, have altered the status of a number of corporations since the compilation of this record. These changes, however, merely emphasize the monopolistic tendency toward concentration by bringing together two or more companies treated separately in this report.

The United Gas Improvement Company and the Philadelphia Electric Company, for instance, are here treated separately, although since June 30, 1927, these two corporations have been merged. In the same way, the Consolidated Gas Company of New York and the Brooklyn Edison Company are treated separately, although plans for their consolidation were this year approved by the Public Service Commission of New York.

The most striking fact uncovered by this study of 4,362 corporations in the power industry is the thoroughness with which concentration has been achieved. Under this concentration the power corporations fall into four general groups:

Operating Companies
3,108	controlled by 41 big holding companies.
877	“ “ 125 smaller holding companies.
126	“ “ 31 investment companies allied with the power interests.
85	entirely independent companies.
<hr/>
4,196	operating companies.
166	holding companies.
4,362	corporations owned or controlled by the electrical power industry, not including the 31 investment companies mentioned above.

The outstanding importance of the 41 big holding companies, which own or control 3,108 of the 4,196 operating companies, is recognized here at a glance. Yet the dominating importance of the 41 is still further increased when their kilowatt hours of production and population served are considered.

The records show that the 41 big holding companies control a little more than 82 percent of all the electric power generated in the United States. The records further show that almost 83 percent of the country's population depends upon the 41 power giants for the electric energy they need.

The kilowatt hours of production and the population served by each of the 41 is given herewith in detail from the corporations' own reports for the year ended December 31, 1926:

These production and population figures leave no doubt that here are the 41 dominating and controlling power corporations of the United States.

But the high degree of concentration and monopoly included within the 41 is not made clear until they are grouped under the dominating financial interests on their boards of directors. Thus identified by their financial directors, 23 of the 41 big power corporations group themselves as follows:

UNDER GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY CONTROL

American Gas & Electric Co.	Electric Power & Light Corp.
American Power & Light Co.	Lehigh Power Securities Corp.
Detroit Edison Co.	Nat'l Power & Light Co.
Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston.	Southeastern Pwr. & Lt. Co.

(Note: The Electric Bond and Share Securities Corporation, which in 1925 took over the Electric Bond and Share Company as holding company for the General Electric Company, appears from the records mainly as a financial and supervisory management company and is, therefore, listed in this report among the 31 investment companies allied with the power corporations.)

UNDER SAMUEL INSULL CONTROL

Commonwealth Edison Co.	Nat'l Electric Power Co.
Commonwealth Lt. & Pwr. Co.	North American Lt. & Pwr. Co.
Middle West Utilities Co.	Public Service Company of
Midland Utilities Co.	Northern Illinois.

UNDER J. P. MORGAN & CO. CONTROL

Nat'l Public Service Corp.	Public Service Corp. of N. J.
Philadelphia Electric Co.	United Gas Improvement Co.

UNDER A. W. MELLON CONTROL

American Water Works and Elec. Co., Inc.	Columbia Gas & Electric Corp.
---	-------------------------------

UNDER H. M. BYLLESBY & CO. CONTROL

Pacific Gas & Elec. Co.

UNDER HENRY L. DOHERTY & CO. CONTROL

Cities Service Co.

These six major financial interests which exert control over 23 of the 41 big power corporations as listed above, also exercise a joint control over 12 more of the great electric corporations as follows:

American Light & Traction Co. ....	Mellon-Doherty.
American Public Utilities Co. ....	Morgan-Insull.
Brooklyn Edison Co. ....	Morgan-Ryan-Brady.
Commonwealth Power Corp. ....	General Electric-Morgan-Byllesby-Doherty.
Consolidated Gas Co. of New York ...	Morgan-Ryan-Brady-Rockefeller.
Consolidated Gas, Elec. Lt. & Pwr. Co. of Baltimore .....	Morgan-Mellon-Aldred.
Mohawk Hudson Power Corp. ....	General Electric-Morgan-Brady.
Montana Power Co. ....	General Electric-Morgan-Ryan-Brady.
Northeastern Power Corp. ....	General Electric-Morgan-Harri- man.
Standard Gas & Electric Co. ....	Mellon-Byllesby.
United Light & Power Co. ....	Mellon-Doherty.
Western United Corp. ....	Morgan-Insull.

Twenty-three plus 12 is 35, which leaves six of the 41 big power corporations whose centralized control is not yet identified by the financial interests on their boards of directors.

These are:

Associated Gas & Electric Co.	Southern California Edison Co.
Buffalo, Niagara & East. Pwr. Co.	General Gas & Electric Corp.
North American Co.	Utilities Power & Light Corp.

The relative importance of the financial groups which exercise control over 35 of the 41 big power corporations is shown by the following table of production, population served, and total assets of each group:

Companies	Control	K. W. H. Sold	Population Served	Total Assets
8	General Electric ....	13,474,105,496	19,125,000	$1,725,122,021
7	Insull .....	7,733,854,205	11,226,395	910,607,822
4	Morgan .....	4,131,426,095	14,197,364	1,107,468,721
2	Mellon .....	2,409,225,214	2,790,000	815,930,227
1	Byllesby .....	2,157,886,980	2,472,000	329,365,258
1	Doherty .....	1,307,477,634	3,000,000	663,128,487
12	Joint Control .....	12,406,968,650	21,561,488	2,607,840,578
6	Unidentified .....	12,753,249,612	16,620,000	1,859,355,508
41	Totals .....	56,374,193,886	90,992,247	$10,018,818,622

Since the six major financial interests dominate both the 23 corporations listed under their names and also the 12 corporations under joint control, we have only to subtract the figures for the six unidentified corporations in order to get a fairly accurate measure of the six-sided power monopoly held by the General Electric-Insull-Morgan-Mellon-Byllesby-Doherty community of interest.

If we subtract the figures for the six still unidentified power corporations, we find that the six-sided master of the 35 big power corporations holds an amazing supremacy and domination:

	K.W.H.	Population
Total 1926 figures for the United States ...	68,732,000,000	110,000,000
Under control of six major power interests..	43,620,944,274	74,372,247
Percentage controlled by six major power interests .....	63.46%	67.61%

In other words, the General Electric-Insull-Morgan-Mellon-Byllesby-Doherty six-sided power monopoly controls but little less than two-thirds of the entire country's electrical power, and has a little more than two-thirds of the country's population at its mercy for its electric energy and service.

A monopoly of power is in itself not necessarily harmful. The public utility business requires monopolistic authority. Two telephone companies, two gas companies, two electric companies in one town usually amount to an economic extravagance if not a financial impossibility.

The harm and danger of the six-sided power monopoly is not due merely to its monopolistic nature nor even to its enormous size. Its menace is due much more to certain other factors which may be summarized as follows:

1. The monopoly has been created by financial inflation.
2. The financial inflation of the monopoly has been supported by extortion.
3. This inflation and extortion are made possible and perpetuated by the control of investments secured through the blacklisting of investment houses which may refuse to sell the monopoly's inflated securities to the public.
4. Having forced its inflated securities on American investors, the monopoly now dodges behind these investors for protection against the arm of the law in much the same fashion that meaner elements of lawlessness, like common highwaymen, frequently have used their victims as shields against the bullets of policemen.
5. The power monopoly, fully conscious of its financial, industrial, and legal powers, as well as its extra-legal powers for evil, is seeking now in the open and in the dark, by fair means and by foul, to seize or continue control over the powers of government or, failing in this, to intimidate lawful authority to do its will.

The financial inflation of the power monopoly may have had its inception in the early clumsy attempts to limit its earnings. Public service commissions, supported by court decisions, have fixed 7 percent as the fair, equitable return on public utility investments. This rate was undoubtedly fixed in view of the special advantages which are given by the public to public service corporations, although many or most successful business enterprises derive a much higher return on their investment without being charged with either unfairness or extortion.

Under that limit several hundred electric light and power companies, usually small ones, have failed and been sold under foreclosure proceedings. Yet these same bankrupt companies have often been taken over by the big holding companies in the power monopoly and thereafter have prospered. But how could this possibly happen under a law that applied equally to the little and to the big company?

To the power monopolists the answer was easy. Wherever they took over a company, bankrupt or prosperous, for the purpose of establishing or extending their monopoly, almost without exception they paid for the acquired company with their paper—their stock. The prices have run from  $1\frac{1}{4}$  shares of new stock for each old share to as high as five shares for one. Where mergers and consolidations were pyramided on top of each other, which has been the common practice, the inflation, of course, also has been pyramided far beyond the original ratio, which itself was usually unconscionable to begin with. A simple illustration of what then happened will make it plain how the monopolists have managed to walk around the 7 percent limitation on return.

Suppose a small independent company is struggling along on a $100,000 capitalization with a small $90,000 plant and a balance sheet as follows:

ASSETS		LIABILITIES
Plant .....	$90,000	Capital stock .....	$100,000
Commissions, legal ex- penses and other de- ferred charges .....	10,000

Along comes one of the big holding companies of the power monopoly and takes over the little company on the basis of two new shares issued for each old share. The balance sheet then changes as follows:

ASSETS		LIABILITIES
Plant, equipment and franchise .....	$200,000	Capital stock .....	$100,000
		Surplus .....	100,000

This statement, however, still makes it plain that there never was a $200,000 capital investment in plant, equipment, and franchise, and that the $100,000 surplus is inflation pure and simple.

The next step, therefore, is for the board of directors to declare a 100% stock dividend which wipes out the surplus and which balances a $200,000 plant, equipment and franchise entry with an apparent $200,000 capital investment as follows:

ASSETS		LIABILITIES
Plant, equipment and franchise .....	$200,000	Capital stock .....	$200,000

On the balance sheet of the big holding company the little $90,000 plant of the absorbed company also appears at the inflated valuation of $200,000. The monopolists justify this on the ground that it is a well-established rule of accountancy that plant and equipment should be carried in the balance sheet at "cost."

"And it did cost us $200,000," they say. But that cost was paid in paper stock with an actual tangible value of only $90,000 when it was issued for a plant that had cost only $90,000.

Anything paid over and above this $90,000 invested in the little plant was not paid for plant and equipment but was paid for monopoly. Therefore it is not a proper charge to be carried in the balance sheet as "plant, equipment, and franchise" for rate-making purposes on a 7 percent basis.

It matters little to the power monopolists what they pay for monopoly. If they are permitted to extort rates that will pay 7 percent on the inflated valuation, the price of monopoly means nothing to the monopolists. But it does mean extortionate rates to the public.

One of the 41 big holding corporations in the electric power monopoly last year added more than $2,000,000 to its asset entry covering "plant and equipment." This $2,000,000 represented what the corporation had paid for a bus line over and above the actual value of the line. It was not a "plant and equipment" expenditure. It was the price of monopoly, and should have been carried as a "deferred charge."

But as a "deferred charge" it would have been an annual charge against profits before dividends were declared, until at the end of five or seven years it had been wiped out entirely. As it was, by inflating its "plant and equipment" entry with the $2,000,000 price of monopoly, the corporation not only relieved itself from the necessity of making an annual charge against its profits to wipe out this fictitious asset entry, but made it possible to use it for rate-making purposes and collect 7 percent annually on it (which means on nothing) from the public for all time to come.

Such rate extortions, based on such padded assets, balanced with such capital inflation, appear to be a common and consistent policy with the big holding companies of the power monopoly. The balance sheets of these corporations, with their genealogy, their officers, directors, and production statistics are given in detail in Appendix "B" attached to this report.

These balance sheets show the 35 big power corporations, listed above as controlled by the six-sided power monopoly, as having total assets of more than $8,000,000,000. A study of these assets in the light of facts available about their acquisition by pyramid capitalization, indicates a capital inflation of not less than $3,000,000,000, which at the 7 per cent limit would authorize extortionate rates to the tune of $210,000,000 a year.

The actual figures are probably larger by far, but they cannot be established except by a properly authorized public tribunal, such as the Federal Trade Commission or a Senate or House Investigating Committee.

The law that capital stock cannot be issued in exchange for less than its par value is easily hurdled by the power monopolists. When $500,000 of stock is to be issued for a $100,000 plant, the board of directors of the purchasing corporation merely goes on record as declaring that the $100,000 plant to be acquired is "of the actual and fair value of" the $500,000 which is to be paid for it in stock. This legal myth is, of course, a myth only. If the company failed and its plant was to be sold on the open market, it would still bring no more than its actual value regardless of how many resolutions a board of directors might adopt.

In the creation of the electric power monopoly not everything, of course, could be done by capital inflation. Some actual cash was needed, and this the public was permitted to subscribe. But the controlling power financiers exercise their control usually through no par common stock with exclusive voting power. On this voting stock little or nothing is paid in. Very commonly it costs them nothing.

Some additional common stock (but not enough to upset the voting control) together with some preferred stock is issued for the companies absorbed by the power monopoly. Then when actual money is needed to develop the business for which the monopoly is organized, bonds and additional preferred stock are sold to the public.

The ability of the power monopolists in getting the public to subscribe for their securities cannot be ascribed entirely to their pre-eminence as world financiers. They market their securities principally through banks controlled by them and through a dozen or less underwriting houses also subject to their control.

The power financiers are able to say what securities the public shall put its money into, and what not, mainly because of their blacklisting policy. They are able to carry it out for the reason that brokers and investment banking houses dealing in securities listed on the recognized stock exchanges derive a very small profit from commissions for executing order to buy or sell. These commissions average only about $15.00 per 100 shares. Few of the big brokerage houses can pay their overhead from these commissions, and nearly all of them are dependent for their profits on the sale of new securities which yield them commissions as high as $4, $6, or $8 per share.

In order to be sure of a steady supply of new securities, these brokers must get themselves on the syndicate participating lists of the large underwriting houses, most of which are affiliated with or controlled by the power financiers. Once a broker is listed as a "syndicate participant", he is given notice of every new stock or bond issue offered, usually with a hint as to the allotment he should take and sell to the public.

At the same time the syndicate participant receives a duplicate commitment contract which in writing states the price at which the issue is to be sold to the public, the price at which the issue will be delivered to the broker, the time at which the offering must be made, and the time at which the syndicate will close its offering. Everything is in that commitment contract except the most important thing of all. That is the unwritten but thoroughly understood threat: IF YOU DON'T SELL THE PUBLIC WHAT WE TELL YOU TO SELL, YOU WILL GET NOTHING MORE TO SELL. SELL WHAT WE SAY OR QUIT THE SECURITY BUSINESS.

It matters nothing that in the broker's judgment the security in question may not be a desirable issue to offer to his customers. If he persists in exercising such judgment, he will find himself overlooked entirely when a particularly good issue is offered. Such hints are singularly effective in bringing the broker to obey the unwritten discipline of the big underwriting houses. Otherwise he is stricken off the syndicate lists and to all intents and purposes is out of the business.

Most of the brokers accept this situation philosophically and console themselves with the fact that the poorer securities the underwriting houses compel them to sell, the bigger commissions they pay. Consequently the disciplinary blacklist in no small degree affects the entire securities business of the country. In effect it enables the power magnates to decide what the average investor shall do with his money and what he shall not.

Such a sales system added to tremendous financial strength and influence explains how the power monopolists during the last seven years have been able to raise billions of dollars from the public for the development of their monopoly.

The billions raised from the public by the power monopolists do not come entirely from the savings of small investors. Bank funds, insurance funds, and other trust funds actually belonging to the public though held by business corporations have also been loaded with power securities by the same forced sales methods employed against the smallest broker and his customers.

Changes in the investment securities held by some of the largest insurance companies in 1920 and 1926 tell their own story.

These typical samples of changes in insurance investments indicate that even the high executives of mighty insurance corporations give heed when the dominant voices of the power monopolists speak. This demand for money and more money to extend and develop their monopoly to the utmost at the earliest possible moment has behind it the fear that unless they hurry, before they have accomplished their purpose the nation may call a halt. They know that the States cannot.

These powerful financiers who browbeat our investment bankers, dictate our investments, nominate our governors, bully our senators, appoint and subsidize our university professors, and prostitute our free press for propaganda purposes, these mighty men still recognize that the Government of the United States is able to control them if it undertakes the task in time. There is no other cloud on their horizon.

One subterfuge which betrays that fear is the method of dividing their corporations into generating and transmission companies. Then they set up the claim that one-half of their business is not subject to interstate regulation because it engages solely in intrastate business; while the other half of the business denies the jurisdiction of the state public service commission on the ground that it is engaged in interstate commerce. They are past masters in the game of playing State authority against Federal and Federal against State to escape the authority of both.

Their success in creating conflict between State and Federal laws will be brought to a dramatic climax in the State of Maine within the next few months. For nearly twenty years the power monopolists have fought not only for control of the water power resources of Maine, one of the principal assets of that State, but for unregulated control of these resources. The corporations of the power monopolists own the principal Maine water powers, but they are subject to the "Fernald Law" which prohibits power companies from exporting Maine power to other States. That law is important not only on the ground of fostering the internal development of the State, but also because as soon as Maine power is exported into another State, the Maine power companies will claim exemption from the strong Maine public service law and defy its authority to regulate rates. The power monopolists bought up newspapers, bought up banks, bought up elections, and passed the repeal of the "Fernald Law" through the legislature. But Governor Brewster vetoed the repeal, and the power monopolists had not corrupted the State sufficiently to overrule the Governor in 1927.

But they went at it again this year and nominated their candidate for governor on the Republican ticket. The power issue was brought into the campaign but with lavish use of money and with full use of their absolute control over the banks and the newspapers of Maine, the power interests carried their candidate to overwhelming victory. This was less a Republican victory than a power trust victory. More specifically it was a Samuel Insull victory.

Insull money found it even easier to elect a Governor of Maine than a United States Senator from Illinois. The Governor during his campaign said that he would submit the power question to a popular referendum. With their absolute control over the press and the election machinery of Maine, the power monopolists have little doubt about their ability to carry the referendum.

What will happen then is forecast by a test case won by the power monopolists in Rhode Island. The Narragansett Electric Lighting Company is the principal distributor of electricity in the state of Rhode Island. It is controlled by the New England Power Association, a Massachusetts trust. This Narragansett Electric Lighting Company entered into a contract with the Attleboro Steam and Electric Company of Massachusetts to deliver electric current to it at a rate far below the rate charged to its Rhode Island customers. The low rates paid by the Attleboro company created a deficit every year and this deficit was made up by increasing the rates to the Rhode Island consumers of the Narragansett Company.

The Public Utility Commission of Rhode Island finally brought suit on the ground that it was unfair to charge Rhode Island consumers an excessive rate to meet a deficiency caused by selling Rhode Island power too cheaply in Massachusetts. But the United States Supreme Court held that the contract between the Narragansett Company and the Attleboro Company was interstate commerce with which the Rhode Island Utility Commission could not interfere. And so the Rhode Island consumers of Rhode Island power must continue to pay for a part of the cost of Rhode Island power used by the consumers of another State.

And it goes without saying that the power magnates will furnish their Massachusetts consumers with cheap electricity only until they have killed off competition and firmly established their monopoly. Then the Massachusetts customers also will pay all the traffic will bear.

But despite all the cases in which the power monopolists have labored so desperately to show that they were engaged in interstate commerce, the Federal Government no sooner takes steps than the power monopolists send an army of lobbyists to Washington to prove, among other things, that they are engaged purely in intrastate business.

This was the plea entered against a Senate investigation under the resolution introduced by Senator Walsh of Montana. This is the plea now against a full and honest investigation by the Federal Trade Commission under the amended Walsh resolution. This is the plea against remedial national legislation. Indeed, if newspaper reports are not merely propaganda, President Coolidge himself has been convinced that the Federal Trade Commission investigation has brought out nothing which calls for Federal action or for recommendations by him in his final message to Congress.

The Federal Trade Commission has already proved that the power monopolists have resorted to unprecedented uses of corruption funds to poison the fountains of all public information—not only our newspapers, our public lecture platforms, and our periodical publications but even our universities and grammar schools.

Testimony before the Federal Trade Commission has disclosed subsidized reporters, subsidized editors, subsidized professors, subsidized governors, subsidized ex-governors and ex-senators, even a subsidized ambassador.

The testimony also shows how the corruption funds of the power monopolists paid for propaganda in magazines, in the movies, on the radio, in school textbooks, and even in government publications.

Never in the history of America has there been another so wide-spread, so bold, and so unscrupulous plot to corrupt all sources of public information and public education.

In uncovering these most vital facts, in the face of influences whose weight it would be difficult to exaggerate, the Federal Trade Commission has rendered a public service of very great value, and has opened the way to a public service greater still. It can, if it will, ascertain and tell the people exactly how much water they are paying interest on, just what is the amount of extortion practiced upon them, and out of how many millions the people are being mulcted each year in unjust rates.

Last spring I submitted to the Federal Trade Commission a series of questions which will bring out the truth. These questions comply entirely with the Senate resolution, and constitute a proper and reasonable inquiry of the power companies. This questionnaire, which every power corporation should be compelled to answer in full under oath before the Federal Trade Commission, contains no single question which cannot be readily and promptly answered by every power corporation from its own available corporate records, as the reading of it will establish:

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR POWER CORPORATIONS

1. Name, date, and place of incorporation of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies and of every company merged or consolidated with or absorbed by your company and each of its subsidiary companies.
2. Give authorized and outstanding capital stock and funded indebtedness of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies and of each company merged or consolidated with or absorbed by your company and each of its subsidiary companies.
3. Give consideration for which each securities issue, both stocks and bonds, were issued by your company and by each of its subsidiary, merged, consolidated, or absorbed, holding or operating company, and show separately both the total consideration paid for each issue and the net return from each issue to the issuing corporation.
4. In the case of securities issued in exchange for other securities, furnish full terms of exchange together with complete financial statements of the exchanging corporations as of the time of the exchange and give an analysis of these financial statements as follows:
  - a. Total assets.
  - b. Less deferred charges.
  - c. Less other intangible and good will assets.
  - d. Less current indebtedness.
  - e. Less funded indebtedness.
  - f. Plus reserves.
  - g. Less preference issues at retirement value.
  - h. Divide remainder by number of common shares outstanding to show tangible common stock equity per share.
5. Furnish detailed balance sheet of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies as of December 31, 1927, and for each of the next preceding seven years with all schedules attached.
6. Give complete detailed analysis of the surplus account of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies, showing separately the earned surplus and surplus set up through appreciation.
7. Give complete detailed analysis of the property, equipment and franchise account or accounts of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies, showing in detail all intangible assets carried in such accounts or in any investment account on the books of any of these corporations.
8. Furnish profit and loss statements of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies for the last seven years.
9. Furnish income and disbursement statements of your company and of each of its subsidiary companies for the last seven years.
10. Give service reports as follows:
  - a. Classes of service rendered.
  - b. Number of customers in each class.

- c. Rates of charges for each class of service.
  - d. Gross income from each class of service.
  - e. Cost of production in each class of service together with method of computation.
  - f. Net income from each class of service.
11. Give production records as follows:
    - a. Kilowatt hours of production for the year 1926 and 1927, separately.
    - b. Kilowatt hours purchased during the years 1926 and 1927, separately.
    - c. Cost per kilowatt hour purchased during the years 1926 and 1927.
    - d. Total cost of kilowatt hours purchased during the years 1926 and 1927.
    - e. Number of customers and estimated population served during the years 1926 and 1927.
  12. Give summary of any underwriting contract executed by your company and each of its subsidiary companies for the sale of any securities issued by your company and each of its subsidiary companies, with name of underwriting house, date of underwriting contract, par value of the securities underwritten, price to the underwriter and public offering price.
  13. Give amount of insurance carried by your company and each of its subsidiary companies, showing face value of policies, name of insurance carrier, and premiums paid.
  14. Account for all expenditures made by your company and by each of its subsidiary companies for promotion, publicity, legislative or propaganda purposes, and for the purpose of influencing public opinion or legislative, executive or administrative actions, and show in each instance in what account, educational, publicity, legal, advertising, or any other account, these expenditures are carried on the books of your company and each of its subsidiary companies.

In order to make this questionnaire system of inquiry effective, it is highly important that the answers to the questionnaire be filed under the signature and oath of authorized officials of each of the respondent corporations so that these corporations and not merely some clerks or bookkeepers are made legally responsible for the answers filed.

Another essential point is that the answers should include financial statements of all subsidiary companies of the big holding corporations without which a fair and proper check on asset inflations is impossible.

It is also important that the corporations be obliged to file all financial contracts executed by the holding corporations and by their subsidiaries, whether in force or not, because in the absence of such information the financial inflations through which the power monopolies have been built up during the last few years cannot be traced or analyzed.

Any fair and adequate inquiry must take into consideration the fact that the corporate records of the power monopolists contain indisputable evidence of any unusual, improper, or questionable methods by which their monopolies have been created. This evidence is reflected in the form and character of the financial statements and exhibits which they have originated for their own use and which truly represent the operations which they endeavor to justify. No investigation not based on these original records can hope to uncover all the essential facts. Substitute records following prescribed forms may readily eliminate fifty per cent of the evidence contained in the original records and, thereby, tell only fifty per cent of the truth and be fifty per cent misleading.

We have seen the electric monopoly pick out State Governments. We have seen it crack its whip over State Assemblies. We have seen it with stupid arrogance and conscienceless boldness corrupt elections, and attempt to buy a seat in the United States Senate. We have seen it attempt to compel the United States Senate to deliver that purchased seat.

We have seen it override the will of the people by its control over Congress. We have felt the application of its social pressure, its financial pressure, its political control. We have indisputable proof that the power banks, the power politicians, and the power monopolists are striving for nothing less than a power dictatorship over the Nation in all its parts.

A private state within the public state is bad enough. But a private super-state, over-awing and dominating the state, is intolerable.

Do we care enough about the future of America to save it from such a private super-state of electric power giants?

APPENDIX A

Alphabetical list of 4,362 companies owned or controlled by the electrical power industry. In brackets after the name of each subsidiary company is the name of the controlling holding company.

The holding companies and principal corporations are identified by their group numbers as follows:

- 41 indicates company is one of the 41 big holding corporations.
- 125 indicates company is one of the 125 smaller holding corporations.
- 31 indicates company is one of the 31 investment companies allied with the power corporations.
- 85 indicates company is one of the 85 entirely independent companies.

Attached is separate alphabetical lists of the principal corporations in the four groups without their subsidiaries.
