INSTRUCTIONS FOR KEEPING 4-H CLUB RECORDS

Each 4-H Club member is required to keep a businesslike record covering the project carried. It is good business to keep complete and accurate records. Such records will show how you stand in dollars and cents upon completing the year's work.

1. This is a special Record Book to be used only by members entering the Portland Union Stock Yards Company Pig Feeding Contest. In addition to this record you must keep a 4-H livestock record book which should include pigs entered in this contest and any other pigs you own.
2. This contest requires that four or more pigs from the same litter be fed for market and exhibited at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition. You may start with an entire litter, then select the best four to exhibit, or you may exhibit and sell as many of the additional pigs as you like.
3. The summary on page 5 is to cover only the pigs exhibited at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition in this contest.
4. These records are to start when pigs are weaned (not more than 10 weeks old).
5. Records must cover a feeding period of at least 90 days.
6. Your Record Book is not complete unless it contains the story, "My Experiences in Feeding Hogs for Market."
7. This completed Record Book is a required part of your exhibit.
8. Because the feeding qualities or values of kitchen waste, garbage, waste fruits, and vegetables vary widely, they are not recommended for this contest.

MY EXPERIENCES IN FEEDING HOGS FOR MARKET

Write a complete story concerning this project. Tell where you got your pigs and how you fed and cared for them. Be sure to give kind of pasture and condition of it at intervals during the feeding period. Pictures of your hogs may be pasted in the back of this record book.
