The purpose of 4-H is to help boys and girls learn and develop—knowledge, skills, attitudes. The 4-H projects, meetings, and activities with the guidance of leaders provide the learning experiences for this development.

Most 4-H publications and certain other 4-H materials are provided by the Oregon State University Extension Service through county Extension offices to enrolled 4-H leaders and members. A few items must be purchased.

4-H materials are not generally available to the public except that teachers and leaders of other youth groups may request single copies of most items. A few items are available for sale to the public.

A great variety of 4-H projects and materials are available to 4-H members and leaders from county Extension offices. This leaflet lists those general materials that do not relate to specific projects. Other leaflets describe the various 4-H projects and materials available for them. They are:

- 4-H Animal Science Projects and Materials 0231L
- 4-H Plant Science Projects 0232L
- 4-H Natural Science Projects and Materials 0233L
- 4-H Mechanical Science Projects 0234L
- 4-H Personal Development Projects and Materials.. 0236L
- 4-H Creative Arts Projects and Materials 0237L
- 4-H Home Economics Projects and Materials 0239L

These leaflets will help you and your 4-H members select projects and order materials needed. When you are ready to organize your club, you will need a copy of So You Want to Organize a 4-H Club—0215L, members' and leaders' enrollment forms, this leaflet and those relating to the projects you expect to lead, and a packet of club officers' materials. If you know the project you will lead, you can get a sample set of project materials. When your enrollments and the attached materials order form are submitted to your county Extension office, you will get the project materials for your members.

Locally Developed Projects

In addition to the more than 50 projects with over 100 divisions offered in the Project Leaflets for which project materials are provided by the OSU Extension Service, there are many other subjects that are suitable for 4-H projects. Much talent is available locally to develop other worthwhile projects.

Leaders and others are invited to develop such projects when leadership and materials can be provided locally.

A Project Planning Guide 0019 is provided to help plan new projects. General leader and member materials are also available. My 4-H Project Record, 038R is suitable for many projects. My 4-H Notes 039R may be used with any project.

A 4-H project should teach useful skills, provide opportunities to learn by doing and be in harmony with the broad objectives of 4-H.
