

Supplementary Fig. S1. Disease gradients inferred from powdery mildew levels on trap plants of cultivars Symphony (susceptible) and Nugget (R6 resistance) deployed in a field plot in 2014 and 2015. Note that the disease gradient emanating from the center of the plot is primarily in the direction of the prevailing wind during the 48 hour period when the trap plants were deployed, indicating insignificant incursion of exogenous inoculums into the field.