One of the foremost pediatric cardiologists in the country will present a noon seminar on Tuesday, Nov. 24

Most noted for his contributions in cardiac imaging, particularly echocardiography, Dr. David J. Sahn is Professor of Pediatrics (Cardiology), Diagnostic Radiology, and Obstetrics and Gynecology at Oregon Health & Sciences University in Portland, Oregon. He also holds institutional titles of: Director, Clinical Care Center for Congenital Heart Disease; and Director, OHSU Interdisciplinary Program for Cardiac Imaging in recognition of his role in advancing both ultrasound and cardiac MRI.

The seminar will be presented tomorrow in 102 Magruder Hall from 12:00 to 1:00.

Advanced diagnostic seminar held on Saturday

An Advanced Diagnostic Imaging Techniques seminar, designed for Veterinary Teaching Hospital referring veterinarians, was held at the VTH on Saturday, Nov. 21. It offered benefits of imaging techniques for small and large animal patients, interesting large animal cases, and a tour of the diagnostic imaging suite. Dean Clarke introduced the program that included presentations by Dr. Susanne Stieger-Vanegas and Dr. Mike Huber. A live computed tomography demonstration of a dog was done by CT technician Jason Wiest. The imaging study of the thorax was performed with a breath hold technique with anesthesia managed by Dr. Thomas Riebold. Two CE credits were available for the program.

Happy Thanksgiving!
