Busy week ahead for the College of Veterinary Medicine

With the end of spring term near, the College of Veterinary Medicine will soon begin the whirlwind of graduation week.

On Wednesday, June 3, the College will hand out more than $200,000 in scholarships and awards to students, staff and faculty. The College Awards Ceremony, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. at the CH2M Hill Alumni Center, will be followed by a reception. Family and friends are welcome at this all-College event.

The invitation-only Senior Banquet will be held the following evening. Sponsored by Nestlé Purina, this event will take place at the Springhill Country Club in Albany and is held as a celebration of graduation.

On Friday, June 5, after rehearsing graduation and touring the College with their parents and Dean Clarke, the graduating seniors will be hosting an all-College Senior Party and Senior Review. This festive event, sponsored by Royal Canin, will be taking place at 2310 Steele Ave, just outside Corvallis. It will feature a roasted pig, live music, skits and a slide show designed to show the seniors' version of their last four years of college. The seniors are pleased to invite faculty, staff, students, and their family and friends. Please leave your dogs at home. The party starts at 5 p.m., skits around 6:30 p.m.

Saturday will come early with the 8 a.m. tee off at the senior-hosted Ditzworth Golf Tournament. The tournament will be held at the Marysville Golf Course. If you haven't signed up to play, you can still come out to heckle the competitors as they slice their way around the course. The Senior Picnic, just a green's length away in Avery Park is immediately following the Ditzworth. Sponsored by Merial and hosted by the seniors, it is also an all-College and family affair and will begin at 1 p.m. at the Lion's Shelter.

Things will wrap up on Sunday, June 7, with the moment the 48 students in the Class of 2009 have been waiting for: Oregon State University's 27th graduation ceremony dedicated solely to veterinary graduates. This year's graduates will become Doctors of Veterinary Medicine around 1:30 p.m. on Sunday. Everyone is encouraged to attend and congratulate the 48 new DVM's at the reception following the ceremony.

In summary, you are invited:

2009 College of Veterinary Medicine Awards Ceremony

Dean Clarke will need two hours next Wednesday, June 3 to hand out the more than $200,000 worth of scholarships and awards at the 2009 College Awards Ceremony at the CH2M Hill Alumni Center. He will be joined by many of the scholarship sponsors who will attend the ceremony in order to personally hand over their gift to the deserving recipient.

The program will begin with first-year class awards, then move on to second-, third-, and fourth-year classes and finally wrap up with faculty, staff and research awards. Students will be notified by letter prior to the event if they are receiving an award. Please plan to attend if you get such a notification. Family and friends are welcome to attend.

The ceremony begins at 3 p.m. and a reception will immediately follow.

New Employee

Ronald Mandsager – Anesthesiologist

Dr. Ron Mandsager joined our faculty on May 11. A 20-year veteran of anesthesiology, he came to Oregon State University from the University of Minnesota where he finished his residency training in 1989. His main duties here are twofold: to provide clinic anesthesia to surgery patients in our hospital and to teach our students the nuances of anesthesia.

A bicyclist and photographer, Dr. Mandsager could hardly have picked a better place than Oregon to indulge those hobbies. He also has four big dogs; a Labrador, a greyhound, and two Borzois.

Newly tenured faculty

I am pleased to announce that Drs. Bernard Séguin and Barret Bulmer, assistant professors in the Clinical Sciences Department, have been promoted to associate professors and have been granted indefinite tenure.

In the Biomedical Sciences Department, Dr. Christiane Löhr has been promoted to associate professor and granted indefinite tenure, and Dr. Jean Hall has been promoted to full professor. Please join me in congratulating these faculty members for these notable accomplishments.

–Dean Cyril Clarke

Congratulations and kudos to these faculty and staff who have spent their careers at Oregon State University.

Student ambassadors take veterinary medicine to the community

The College of Veterinary Medicine student ambassadors will be taking their passion for veterinary medicine on the road this summer. Major events they have planned include having booths at the following events:

July 9	Pet Health Event in Eugene
July 17-19	Da Vinci Days
August 11-15	Umatilla County Fair

Their booth includes interactive displays and activities for patrons to participate in. For example, there's an eyeball/squid dissection game, comparative anatomy station, ruminant station, auscultation station, various radiographs and other models and posters.
