CARLOT SHIPMENTS OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

IN OREGON, BY POINT OF ORIGIN - 1925-1935*

The data show that potatoes, pears, apples, onions, fresh prunes and cauliflower account for the bulk of the carlot shipments of fruits and vegetables in Oregon. The trend has been upward in respect to potatoes and onions, but somewhat downward on apples. Hood River is the point of origin of a large part of the shipments, especially apples, pears and strawberries. Medford in Jackson County ranks first in pears, The Dalles first in cherries, Milton in Umatilla County for fresh prunes, and Salem for dried prunes. Klamath Falls is the principal potato shipping point, Brooks in Marion County for celery and onions, and Nyssa in Malheur County for lettuce.

*These data were compiled from carlot shipment reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, by Oregon State College students employed under the National Youth Administration, under the direction of L. R. Breithaupt, Extension Agricultural Economist, Oregon State College. The work was supervised by Elvera Horrell, statistical secretary in the office of the Extension Agricultural Economist. The work also included the tabulation of monthly shipments from each point of origin from 1925 to 1935 inclusive. Owing to the amount of these data, they have not been included in this publication, but are available in the files of the Oregon Agricultural Extension Service.
