Dr. Jerry Heidel elected to Faculty Senate

Congratulations to Dr. Jerry Heidel for being elected to the Faculty Senate as a representative for the College of Veterinary Medicine. He joins Drs. Beth Valentine and Karyn Bird on this committee. Dean Cyril Clarke thanks Dr. Charles Estill for his past service.

Oregon State University currently has a 130-member Faculty Senate, which represents about 2,200 faculty. Its bylaws were first adopted in 1956, but its current administrative arrangement was established in 1978. The Faculty Senate is responsible for determining and establishing the purposes of Oregon State University; it assumes responsibility for the creation, maintenance, and protection of the University environment; and it provides the means by which the administration may be apprised of representative opinion of the entire Faculty.

The vision for the Oregon State University Faculty Senate continues to be one of providing safeguards for faculty in the areas of academic freedom. It ensures that faculty have a role in providing input in program development, reduction or redirection and it continues to strive for shared governance in the areas that directly affect faculty. It also continues to provide formal recommendations on areas that affect faculty at the University. It is the vision of the leaders of this organization that the Senate will continue to be involved with substantial issues that are of concern to Oregon State and its faculty and that through continued participation, members of the Faculty will become involved in the important issues that face higher education.

New Employee

Ryan Mitchell— Trades/Maintenance

Ryan joined the College of Veterinary Medicine in November as a trades/maintenance worker, and as such he can be found in any corner of the College's facilities installing equipment, fixing pipes, painting walls, and anything else that needs to be done to keep our buildings functional. He has enjoyed his time in Veterinary Medicine so far, and says that everyone here is really nice to work with.

A native Oregonian, Ryan has lived and worked in Corvallis in the past but currently lives in Albany. Before hooking up with the College of Veterinary Medicine he worked in the sporting goods industry for many years. He also had the opportunity to get into the real estate market flipping houses.

His spare time is filled with fishing, snowboarding, working on his vintage Triumph motorcycle, and restoring classic cars.
