2002 Oregon County and State Agricultural Estimates

Oregon Agricultural Information Network (OAIN)
Extension Economic Information Office
Oregon State University

This report is designed to provide a quick overview of Oregon's agriculture for the past year. The following pages report preliminary estimates for the value of sales and agricultural production for 2002. Also reported are revised numbers for 2001 and 2000. Preliminary or first estimates are revised and posted to our Web site noted below as our office receives updated information. These published estimates are those reported to our office as of February 20, 2003. Estimates are collected and organized by Oregon State University Extension Service personnel. Once county estimates are complete, state totals are tabulated for this special report.

Farm gate sales or receipts are a traditional measure of economic activity reported for the agricultural industry. Individual commodity categories are subject to interpretation, depending on the refinement of classification. The level of aggregation may shift the apparent ranking of a commodity sector. Combining individual grass seed varieties, for example, results in much greater revenues than any single variety. Thus, measures of importance based on gross sales are sensitive to the categorization scheme and level of aggregation.

Rankings are based on the value of gross farm sales. For livestock forages, in particular, the value of sales is significantly less than the value of production, since these forages are frequently produced for on-farm use. Prices used to compute farm gate sales do not include direct government payments.

"Other farm income," particularly farm forestry or small woodlot products, is included in these agricultural estimates. At a projected $168.89 million (page 4) in 2002, farm forestry represents a significant contributor to farm income. Use caution in comparing these agricultural estimates with Department of Forestry data, as such comparisons may lead to double counting of sales.

From time to time, Commodity Data Sheets are published. These data sheets contain production and sales-related information on selected commodity groups. The data sheets report county-level and state data for Oregon, as well as regional data for the Pacific Northwest and other areas of the United States. Production and value estimates are aggregated up from individual county data. Livestock such as cattle and sheep may be present in a given county for only some portion of the year. For these commodities, the production and value are based on the value added while the livestock were present in the county, rather than on the number of animals sold.*

The Oregon State University Extension Service educates Oregonians by delivering research-based, objective information to help them solve problems, develop leadership, and manage resources wisely.

Extension's agriculture program provides education, training, and technical assistance to people with agriculturally related needs and interests. Major program emphases include food and fiber production, farm business management, marketing and processing of agricultural products, resource use and conservation, and environmental preservation and improvement.

This publication was produced and distributed in furtherance of the Acts of Congress of May 8 and June 30, 1914. Extension work is a cooperative program of Oregon State University, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Oregon counties.

Oregon State University Extension Service offers educational programs, activities, and materials—without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, age, marital status, disability, and disabled veteran or Vietnam-era veteran status—as required by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Oregon State University Extension Service is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
