In 1993, Oregon's legislature provided funding for a Value-Added Wood Products Extension Program. The program, a component of Oregon State University's Extension Service, provides educational programming and information services to Oregon's wood products industry. This directory is an outcome of OSU's Value-Added program.

The authors wish to acknowledge the support and guidance of Dr. Thomas McLain, Head of OSU's Forest Products Department, and Dr. A. Scott Reed, Assistant Dean for Extended Education, College of Forestry. The Oregon Economic Development Department, the Wood Products Competitiveness Corporation, and the Specialty Wood Products Cooperative of Oregon each provided invaluable technical assistance. Preprinting support was provided by Evie Liss, Teresa Welch, and the staff of OSU's Agricultural Communications. Special thanks must go to Julia Yarbrough, who spent innumerable hours collecting and recording the information contained herein, and to our colleagues in the Forest Products Department for their editorial services. Finally, this directory would not have been possible without the willing participation of Oregon's wood products industry. To all of you, the authors extend a hearty "thank you."

How to Use This Directory

The Oregon Wood Products Marketing Directory is a compilation of information voluntarily submitted by participating companies. It contains references to 563 of Oregon's estimated 1,300 wood products firms.

The directory is compiled into 10 sections. Each section lists those companies that indicated production and/or sales of a product classified by the authors as related to the section title. While every attempt has been made to utilize the most logical combination of products for each section, the authors recognize that there are other possible classifications for each product.

Each company record spans a two-page layout, beginning at the left and continuing to the right across the binding on the adjacent page. The numbering sequence reflects this two-page layout, and thus differs from other publications. Company records are separated by a solid horizontal line.

If you are looking for general classifications of product suppliers, simply refer to the appropriate section. For more specific product needs, refer to the "Index to Products Sold" on page 126. For information on products typically purchased by participating companies, refer to the "Index to Products Purchased" on page 129. Information about services to the industry is provided in the "Index to (Custom) Services Offered" on page 132 and a listing of companies included begins on page 135. For your convenience, this publication also contains guides to industry associations and western Extension services that may serve as useful sources of information to wood products manufacturers.

This directory is available in an enhanced version as a stand-alone computerized database. The computerized version includes the information provided in the printed directory plus additional information that could not be printed due to logistical constraints. It offers you the means by which to conduct detailed searches for specific products and services, gives you the ability to segment by a number of variables, and facilitates easy access to information. The computerized database actually may contain information more current than the printed directory, as it is possible to continuously update the electronic format. To obtain a copy of the database, contact the Douglas County OSU Extension Office at the address below. You will be billed only for the cost of mailing the disk set and instructions.

Companies that would like to be included in future revisions of the Oregon Wood Products Marketing Directory are encouraged to contact John Panches, Extension agent, forestry and forest products, at (503) 672-4461.
